OnPath Federal Credit Union Announces New Corporate Headquarters in St. Tammany Parish

MANDEVILLE, La. — OnPath Federal Credit Union has announced plans to establish its corporate headquarters in Mandeville, representing a significant investment in St. Tammany and another step in the growth of the Louisiana-based financial institution.

“OnPath has been proud to serve the people of Louisiana since 1961, and our continued growth calls for a headquarters that can keep pace,” said Jared Freeman, President & CEO of OnPath Credit Union. “This campus brings our teams together under one roof and gives us the room to keep growing. We chose a location that reflects how we work today and where we are headed, and we look forward to a space that strengthens how we serve our members and communities for years to come."

OnPath will locate its corporate headquarters in an existing facility on 5.5 acres. The investment will bring new activity to an underutilized property while providing OnPath with a headquarters location that supports the company’s expansion and long-term growth.

The Mandeville headquarters will support approximately 143 positions, with the company continuing to grow its workforce as its operations expand.

“OnPath is a Louisiana company with deep roots in the Southeast Louisiana region. We appreciate the opportunity to be part of its expansion plans and are excited to welcome the company's headquarters to St. Tammany,” said Russell Richardson, President and CEO of St. Tammany Economic Development Corporation.

OnPath’s decision to establish its headquarters in Mandeville reflects the strength of the regional business environment and highlights the operational and talent advantages St. Tammany offers companies looking to grow and invest for the future.

“This investment reflects the continued economic opportunities we see across St. Tammany Parish,” said Mike Cooper, St. Tammany Parish President. “OnPath’s decision to establish its corporate headquarters in Mandeville speaks to the strength of our business environment, our talented workforce and the quality of life that makes St. Tammany an attractive place to live, work and expand. We’re proud to support OnPath’s continued success.”

“We’re excited to welcome OnPath Federal Credit Union’s corporate headquarters to Mandeville,” said Clay Madden, Mayor of Mandeville. “This investment represents a meaningful addition to our local business community, bringing new activity to an existing property and creating opportunities for continued development of our regional economy. We look forward to seeing OnPath establish its roots here and contribute to the continued success of Mandeville and St. Tammany Parish.”

Construction is expected to begin in December 2026, with OnPath fully operational at the Mandeville headquarters by March 2027. The project will bring an underutilized property back into productive use while establishing a long-term corporate headquarters presence for OnPath in St. Tammany Parish. The investment will provide the company with a centralized location to support its growing workforce and operations as it continues to expand in the region.

About OnPath Federal Credit Union

OnPath FCU began as ASI Federal Credit Union in 1961, serving the hardworking employees of Avondale Shipyards on the banks of the Mississippi River. Over the decades, the credit union has grown to serve more than 100,000 members across all 50 states. In 2019, it rebranded as OnPath, symbolizing its commitment to guiding members toward financial success. From small-dollar loans to community initiatives, OnPath's mission remains the same: to be financial advocates for our members and the communities we serve. For more information, visit BeOnPath.org.
